

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A transparent plastic package containing a pair of non-prescription reading glasses. The temples of the reading glasses pass through openings in the rear wall of the package. The package includes a nose notch. The reading glasses can be tested by a consumer, while in the package, by opening the temples, placing her nose in the notch and placing the temples over her ears. The consumer can then look through the lenses of the reading glasses, to test them for proper magnification.